An Eloquent Speech.

Senator Austin Peay, of Christian county, introduced a resolution in the Senate to the effect that the Senate adjourn in honor of the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans, and made the following brilliant and eloquent speech in support of the same:

MR. SPEAKER—I have offered this resolution from no purpose of delay but to honor our country's history and the memory of the dead. Sixty-nine years ago was fought and won the most successful battle in American history. An ill-armed, ill-disciplined army of American soldiers met in three conflict the trained veterans of England and drove them, broken, dispirited, almost unkilled from the field of battle. American arms were crowned with un-fading lustre, a fair and beautiful city was saved from sack and spoliation, a great war brought to a successful termination, and the American flag made to be respected on the high seas.
These men and their great leader, who won this victory which marks an era in American history, on this anniversary of that glorious day, demand that their memory shall receive our respectful consideration.
If this battle is an era, Gen. Jackson is a central figure in American history. No man, except the great father of his country, has written his name higher or carved his deed deeper on that country's history. His Clay, his Calhoun and his Webster may have had, and did have, a more brilliant genius, profounder wisdom and more convincing logic; but theirs was the eloquence of words, which passed away, while Jackson's was the bold and conspicuous prominence of deeds, which never die. Jackson was great as a soldier, great as a statesman, but great as he was in these, there was an element of greatness in his private life which lifted him up almost to the regions of the gods. It was his unflinching, unswerving love for his wife. A woman lovable and gentle, yet remorseless slander assailed her.

"I hate as the birds
Which are led by the trail from purest snow
And lunge on Diana's temple."

She did not escape detection, but calmly pursued her to an untimely grave. Jackson never forgot her and never forgave her traitors. An insul-tating remark about her cost Dickens his life, and when she died he stood by her open grave and wept like a child. This strong man this man who had met and circumvented all the wiles of a barbarous foe; who, sick and wounded, had faced mutiny in his own camp and quelled it with his steady nerve and fearless glance, who had stood unmoved on the fiery field of Chalmeau and at New Orleans, and seen his belching batteries now down the trained veterans of England, fresh with Peninsular laurels—this iron man stood by the grave of a woman and while his soul was wrung with anguish and his frame shook with emotion, said:

"God might forgive her traitors, but he never would."

It is well for us, Mr. Speaker, to pause for a while in our onward rush and do honor to our country's history and the heroes who made it.
The stones of victory which mark the trod paths of the past are not numerous, and few, very few, are the imperishable names in our history's page. Blessed is that country which has a history to remember, an three blessed that people who honor it.

The poet of the far South, Father Ryan, has embodied this lofty sentiment in beautiful and ringing verse:

"Yes give me the land where the ruins are spread,
And the living dead fight o'er the hearts of the dead."

Yes give me the land that hath graves in each spot,
And names in the graves that will not be forgot."

Murphy-Robinson,

(Crittenden Press.)

Married, at the Methodist church in Marion, Jan. 1, 1884, Mr. Robt. F.
Murphy, of Lyon county, to Mrs. Mary Robinson of Marion; Rev. R. Y.
Thomas officiating. The attendants were, Mr. Jos. Rochester and Miss Kate Thomas, Mr. E. C. Flannery and Miss Sallie Hodge.

The church was tastefully decorated with evergreens and flowers.
Archways of evergreens were stretched over each aisle at the end where they merged into the altar place; over the left archway where the party entered, "M. R." was wove in the evergreens, and over the right, the exit, a large "M." made of ivy and myrtle swung, and a large bell-shaped wreath of cedar and flowers hung directly over the bride and groom. The chandeliers were all lighted, throwing a mellow light over the church, and making the en-the scene impressively beautiful. A wedding march issued from the organ when the party entered and stood in front of the altar, and an impressive ceremony made them man and wife; and when they left the house the best wishes of the large congregation followed them. The bride and her attendants were elegantly dressed, and under mellow rays of the lamps, and among the cadence and myrles, looked like maidens of a fairy land. The groom and his attendants wore the conventional black, and looked as handsome as Adonis.

(Mr. Murphy was a resident of this city for several years. He is a brother of Mr. E. J. Murphy, of Pembroke.
We congratulate him on his good fortune.)

Washington Irving.

The writings of the most honored of American authors are at last made accessible to all readers, and in such varied and beautiful forms as to delight the most fastidious taste, and at prices so low as to be an astonishment to book-buyers, and a consternation to book-sellers, of whom the "Literary Revolution" makes no account. As examples, we have "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow" for three cents, "Wolfert's Roost" ten cents, "The Sketch Book" 20 cents—these in paper binding but large type; in neat or elegant cloth or half Russia bindings, his "Choice Works" are publishing at prices varying from 75 to 45 cents, and is complete works (excepting "Life of Washington") in the superb Caxton Edition, six volumes, over 5,000 pages, choice typography, elegant binding, for only $4.
Specimen pages or large descriptive catalogue are sent to any applicant on request, and orders over $5 in amount are filled to be paid for after arrival and examination, on reasonable evidence of good faith being given.

lisher, 13 Vesey Street, New York.

EXCHANGE SCINTILLATIONS.

Young men of strong constitutions should not forget that Goliath died of the effects of a sling.—Burlington Free Press.

As a rule the women that talk women's rights the most are the ones who fall to get their marriage rites.— Yonkers Statesman.

It would be of little use for tailors to agree upon a schedule of prices for their work. In the very nature of the case each would be compelled to "cut."—Madisonville Times.

The Legislature has refused to allow Gov. Knott a page. The Governor had twenty-nine pages to his message, and we agree with the Legislature that it is quite enough unless the papers want to issue supplements —Louisville Commercial.

An exchange comes to us with a poem entitled "How to Kiss," marked in blue pencil. Either the author is blundering proud of his production, or else he thinks we don't know how to do it—in either which cases he is way off.—Elizabethtown News.

COPIED COMMENTS.

HE WEARS A HAT.

Every great man in this country, except the editor of this paper, has the Presidential hat buzzing about his bonnet. The reason it don't buzz about our bonnet, is because we wear a hat.—Mishawaka Times.

HAYES-HAYES—THE SAME SOUND IN FAMILIAR.

R. B. Hayes, of Fremont, O., presided over the lemonade booth at a new-year's festival for the benefit of an orphan asylum. The receipts were $8, leaving the handsome balance of $7.20 after Mr. Hayes had deducted his usual commission of 10 per cent.

WAIT AND SEE.

Gov. Irwin, of Idaho, refused to receive his salary for the time that he was unable to perform the duties of his office. Now just wait until Judge Hines gets back from Florida next spring and see what he will do.
No even bets taken.—Louisville Commercial.

NONE OF THEM BEAT LUKE.

Gov. Foster, of Ohio, issued 277 pardons during his term of four years; Gov. Bishop issued 263 pardons in his two years' term; Hayes and Young in two years issued 207 pardons. Blackburn could discount all of them in this respect. In eighteen months his list reached over 800.
—Commonwealth.

OVERTAKING YOUNG MINDS.

A German physician Dr. Treibler, in a paper read before the German Association of Natural Historians, discusses headache among school children. He says the principal cause of headache is intellectual overexertion. He attacks the present system of education as leading to produce mental confusion instead of increasing the knowledge. He protests against night study as causing an exhaustion of the brain, so that new ideas cannot be really grasped, while confusion is produced with regard to subjects that have been studied during the day. The same views were recently expressed by an eminent American physician. Both critics are on the right track. The results which they deplore are owing to the ambition of parents and scholars themselves, rather than to the work of the teachers. The teacher, under present methods, suffers as much as scholars. The greatest present evils of the scholars are crowded rooms and bad air. These alone would produce headaches and render a child unfit for study, and the teacher unfit for his or her duties. Our teachers are shut up in a box with a large number of scholars, who soon exhaust the oxygen, especially in cold weather when the windows are closed. When this happens, scholars and teachers are reduced to a struggle for existence, and, if anything is learned, it is at the great expense of vital force.
Improvements in school buildings are going on slowly, and it is possible that in ten or twenty years teachers and scholars can enter a school-house without danger of slow poison with carbonic acid gas.—Rocheater Democrat.

There is a signature of wisdom and power impressed upon the works of God, which evidently distinguishes them from the feeble imitations of men. Not only the splendor of the sun, but the glimmering light of the glow-worm proclaims his glory.—John Newton.

Nine new cases of smallpox were reported in Louisville Monday.

Nineteen West Point Cadets have been dismissed for deficiency in their studies.

Col. Bennett H. Young, has been elected President of the Southern Exposition Company, at Louisville.

Covington and Cincinnati are to be connected by another iron bridge, which will have free feet-ways.

Mrs. Louisa H. Albert, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, has entered into partnership with her husband in the practice of law.

Young Nutt, who killed Dukes the seducer of his sister and slayer of his father, at Uniontown, Pa. has been tried and acquitted on the ground of emotional insanity. A just verdict.

Joe Mulhatten's latest escapade in romancing was to telegraph the Nashville American from this city Jan. 11th, that a capital of $500,000 had been subscribed for the erection of a cotton factory in Hopkinsville.

Hon. W. N. Hogan, of Williams-town, an attorney and ex-representative of Grant county, committed suicide the 18th by cutting his throat. He was mentally unbalanced. He was 42 years old and leaves a family.

The first number of the "Old Guard," Col. Mat. McKimney's new paper, appeared at Cadiz Tuesday. It is a seven-column sheet, and judging from its advertising patronage starts out under favorable auspices. We wish it unbounded success.

Cincinnati is very anxious to have the National Democratic Convention this year and a committee of 7 has been appointed to solicit it and a guarantee fund of $11,400 has been subscribed. It is pretty certain that either Cincinnati or Louisville will get it, with the chances in favor of the former.

The Madisonville Times, who was "an original Jones man" can't sleep nights, because Knott has exercised his prerogative and pardoned a few deserving convicts. It seems that Zeno Young is trying to compete with the Covington Commonwealth for the honor of being the "boss kicker of the Kentucky Press."

The Courier-Journal intimates that one way by which the senatorial deadlock could be broken would be for Blackburn and Sweeney to caucus and cast lots to decide which one should withdraw in favor of the other. Messrs Willis and Hoke, of the Louisville Congressional District, settled their claims in this way two years ago, and Mr. Willis won.

Five men were killed and twice as many wounded by the bursting of a boiler in a shoe factory and tannery at Rochester, N. Y. Jan. 18th. An explosion in the mixing house of a dynamite factory at Allentown, Pa. killed three men and injured three. An explosion in a powder house at Scranton, Pa. killed one man. A range boiler in a kitchen at Hunter's Point exploded killing two children and putting out their mother's eyes. How will these do for one day's explosions?

Miles Hall, a beardless youth of Floyd county, only 19 years of age, has been arrested for bigamy, having just married his fourth wife. On Jan. 24 he eloped to Aberdeen, O., with Miss Everette Cassidy, got $115 from her, returned to Catlettsburg, Ky. and deserted her the 4th inst. He was arrested in Fletcher county and investigation showed that he was married last September to Miss Fisher, of Rowan county, and that at that time he had a wife in Floyd county and another in Ohio, making four living wives he now has.

The Louisville Commercial's Washington correspondent gives this pointer in regard to Senator-elect Henry B. Payne's Presidential aspirations: "The Payne Presidential boom is undoubtedly in the hands of the mechanics, who are working day and night on it. Oliver Payne, the wealthy son and standard oil representative, and John R. McLean, are here in that interest. The claim is to be made that Payne can carry both New York and Indiana, and is certain of Ohio as against Arthur, the most probable candidate. The New York Sun has said that McDonald cannot carry that State, but it is believed that that paper would favor Payne upon his conservative tariff platform. As to Indiana an effort is making now to control the politics of that State by means of large Standard Oil Company investments there. It is a neat scheme as laid down, and if money can win the Presidency Payne has 'got enough' to secure the prize. It won a Senatorship for him."

If Senator McDonald's boom is not nursed very carefully, it will subside in the face of the strenuous efforts that will be put forth in behalf of Mr. Payne.

HOW LONG, O LORD, HOW LONG!

In our last issue we reported the proceedings of the Senatorial caucus up to and including Friday night. The number of ballots had then reached 41. There has been nothing to change the result this week.

On Monday night 8 more ballots were taken in one of which Senator Clement voted for Carlisle, but under the rules his vote was thrown out. On Tuesday night 4 more were taken and then Senator Hallam introduced a resolution that the candidates be brought before the caucus and requested to speak upon prominent political issues for 15 minutes each. This resolution took up the rest of the evening and after a great deal of discussion it was laid on the table and the caucus adjourned.

It came together again Wednesday and four ballots were taken, but the dreary monotony remained unbroken and the dead-lock is locked tighter than ever. All three of the candidates are still confident and not a single thing has been lost or gained by the 16 ballots since our last report, the figures still standing 52, 45, 24. There is no telling when the end will be reached.

Peay's Speech.

The following is the speech made by Senator Peay in changing his vote from Sweeney to Williams in the caucus. This is the first time his remarks have been correctly published, the Courier-Journal's version being somewhat unjust to Senator Peay:

"MR. CHAMBERS: I crave the indulgence of this body while I give a reason for the vote I am about to cast.

Beyond these circling hills; beyond the deep still waters of Green river there is a land, where although the blue grass never grows, is nevertheless a portion of Kentucky and of God's country. Wherever the battle has been fiercest and the blows heaviest, that section has ever been found doing battle for Democratic principles, and when victory has come, its neck has ever been bared to the sacrificial blow. I had hoped, and believed, that when that Section presented a candidate, a good man and true, who combined in his person all the noblest elements of the Kentuckian, that while his merit should receive a fitting recognition, that Section in his person, should have a deserved reward for its faith and courage. It is not to be. I am not here to lead, nor to follow any forlorn hope. I have done all that duty to my district demands, all that the utmost stretch of friendship can ask, and now I must do a duty which I owe the people.

When I left my county I said to numerous friends and here to General Williams and his friends, that there were but two men in Kentucky for whom I would vote, before General Williams—once a neighbor by birth, and a friend by adoption, and the other, who lives on the banks of the beautiful Ohio, and wields the most trenchant blade in all Kentucky. They are not here, and for me to refrain longer to cast my vote for Williams, is for me to write falsehood and broken faith all over my forehead, and I refuse to do it. I would cast the vote I am going to cast if I had a political ambition as bright as the rising of Aurora, and by so doing dashed it into eternal darkness, aye, although three-armed and fire-crowned the legions of a solid hell confronted me. I cast my vote for Williams."

Mr. Triplett who followed Mr. Peay in the caucus, speaking in Sweeney's behalf, disclaimed any discourtesy to Senator Peay in a talk with a Courier-Journal reporter, concluding as follows: "I would not intentionally do him an injustice. I esteem him very highly and admire his scholarly polish and culture. I aimed no blow at him individually, and only intended my words to apply to a sentiment which might prove dangerous to the candidate of one party in a doubtful hour. Senator Peay and I have met and laughed over the affair."

SINKING FORK.

Jan. 19th 1884. Mr. Steve Everett one of the most popular young men in the neighborhood went to Fairview last Sunday and will make that his future home.

Mr. T. Hargrave, of Gallatin, Tenn. arrived at this place the 12th inst and will spend this year studying under Mr. J. M. Ramsey.

Theodore Hiser, the popular young clerk at John Wright's is spending several days visiting his father's family, and other friends in the vicinity.

Mr. Sam Boyd and Mrs. Mary Dixon were married at the residence of Mr. John Payne, Jan. 18th. After the ceremony was performed the bridal party repaired to the residence of the groom where an elegant reception was given them.

Last Wednesday evening a large number of young ladies and gentlemen assembled at Mr. Hiser's, where a party was given them. They engaged in various games until a late hour, and had quite a merry time. Mr. Salmon is endeavoring to get up an arithmetic school at Hamby's school house. Ray is a popular young man and I hope he will succeed in his undertaking.

Owing to the severe cold weather for the past three weeks there have been but few pupils attending the district schools.

In your issue of the 11 inst, I find a reply to an article that I had written stating that I had intentionally published a falsehood concerning a sermon, the writer had preached and various other language unworthy to have been written by one professing to be a minister of the gospel. At first it was my intention of treating the article with the silent contempt it undoubtedly deserves. But lest some one should think by silence I admit the falsity of the article I will reply. First I desire to state that what I wrote was nothing more nor less than true. I have heard gentlemen of undoubted veracity, make the same statement concerning the sermon that I made. I do not believe that there was a person present and heard the sermon, but what admits the truthfulness of the article I wrote. And now as I have vindicated the article that I wrote I will say to Mr. Smith that he is welcome to fire away at me from his pugnacious battery with all the force at his command and I will promise him that I will never do him the honor of replying to him. If you will do me the favor of publishing this, I will promise not to trouble you with any more of the kind.

STUDY OF HUMAN NATURE.

The teacher arose immediately after he called the school to order. There was a look of pain on his gentle face, and he seemed to be feeling for an apple in his coat-tail pockets, but he was not. He was feeling for something, but it was not an apple, and it was not in his pocket. He glanced around the school, and every face was either oblivious or mischievous, except Walter Crane's. Walter Crane's face, bent over his Latin grammar, had such a profoundly studious expression, it was so sublimely free from guile, it was so angelically innocent, the teacher called him to the big desk, and as Walter's wondering eyebrows arched themselves into silent but expressive interrogation points, the teacher handled a long switch and said: "Yes, Walter, yes; it was very neatly done; and now if you will just stand out here for one minute I will show you just about where that pin caught me."

And he showed him not once, but many times, to the great disgust of students Walter Crane, and the infinite delight of all the rest of the school, and more especially big Sammy Johnson. Did Walter Crane really put the pin in the teacher's chair, children. Ah, no, indeed and truly he didn't know anything about it. It was big Sammy Johnson, who grinned and rubbed his hands every time Walter "battered," who did it. Thus we see that sometimes in the study of physiognomy the wisest teacher will, as Herodotus observes, "bite off more than he can chew."

You Cannot Buy It in the Bar-rooms.

What an absurd idea it is to send a sick man, with an ailing stomach, a torpid liver, and impoverished blood, to a bar-room to swallow some stimulating stuff, and call it medicine!

An enormous amount of mischief is constantly done by men who thus trifle with themselves. Instead of healing their diseases, they make them worse. Instead of gaining strength they only acquire the disgraceful habit of tipping.

It is a point worth noting in connection with Brown's Iron Bitters, that this valuable medicine is not sold in bar-rooms, and will not be. It is not a drink. It is a remedy. It is not made to tickle the palate of old toppers. It is made to heal disease. It is not made to promote the good-fellowship of a lot of bibulous fellows standing around a bar and asking each other, "What will you take?" It is a true tonic; an iron medicine containing the only preparation of iron which can safely and beneficially be taken into the system.

Democratic, but treats political opponents with uniform courtesy and fairness. It favors whatever it conceives to be for the best interests of a majority of the people of its territory, and its columns are edited with care and industry, and with a view to give the people of Christian and surrounding counties a model newspaper in every respect, and at a price within the ## Othello.

Mr. Edward Whiting, representing the celebrated Wm. Stafford, Shakespearean Company was in town this week and reported this attraction as having a most successful season. Mr. Stafford will appear here to-morrow night in Shakespeare's sublime tragedy of Othello. His impersonation of the character is an artistic interpretation and has met with the heartiest reception everywhere. His company is without doubt the representative legitimate organization and that a fine performance will be given goes without saying. We would advise our readers to secure their seats in advance. The Louisville Post in speaking of Mr. Stafford's Othello says:

Othello's scene before the judges was passed with applause, and then there was no thought for the actor until the scenes where the intense jealousy comes. In these there was no disappointment, and there was a loud call which brought Mr. Stafford before the curtain. The final scene was passed with an effect that held the audience in a spell of horror, and no one could think the less than wonderful at its vigor and accuracy.

More Cussages.

The Evansville papers of last Sunday did not reach here until Wednesday afternoon, when they were four days old, and they came from the opposite direction to Evansville. The papers of Tuesday were received in the same mail so the delay was not an excusable one. The trouble seems to be that there are some multi-headed route agents on the L. & N. railroad who ought to be working on a farm or striking in a blacksmith shop. This instance is not an exceptional one, but it is an unusual occurrence for mail to be carried backwards and forwards for days before it is put off and frequently it falls altogether to reach its destination.

Another New Church.

The Building Committee of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, of this place, we understand, have accepted the detailed plans drawn up by W. C. Smith, of Nashville, and are now ready to receive sealed proposals for the construction of a beautiful house on Russellville street. With its bands and panels of terra cotta, and a forty-five feet front, the building proposes to be rather a feature on that street. Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the pastor, Rev. A. C. Biddle, to whom all contractors are referred for further information.

Our History.

The gentlemen engaged on the history of our county, we are glad to learn, are meeting with good success in gathering data for the proposed work. Many facts of interest pertaining to our early history are to be found in the old court records, and these records are being closely scanned by them, old citizens are being interviewed and every effort made, which should be recorded by our people, to get at the county's earliest history.

HERE AND THERE.

W. F. Patton, Life Insurance.
Howe's is the standard city time.
A. D. Rodgers, Fire Insurance Agt.

The ground has not been clear of snow this year.

Great bargains in Jewelry for sixty days at M. D. Kelly's.

Mr. R. W. Henry has moved his law office to the front room over Kelly's Jewelry store, on Main street.

H. C. Ballard's hardware store on Virginia street was entered by a thief, Wednesday night who stole a lot of cutlery, sugar, etc.

The South Kentuckian will hereafter be represented by Mr. Chas. C. Noble, late of Bowling Green. Mr. Noble has had considerable experience in the various departments of newspaper work and comes to us with first-class recommendations from those who know him best.

Mr. R. P. McClanahan, of Madisonville, Ky., has connected himself with Mr. G. V. Thompson, of this city, for the purpose of stripping and handling tobacco, in which capacity he is thoroughly posted. He is a true gentleman and we welcome him to our midst.

The Madison Square Theatre company played "Young Mrs. Winthrop" to a moderately good house Wednesday evening. It is a first-class play with a first-class cast. Owing to the blockade at Evansville the company was unable to get its special scenery here. They had to cross the Ohio in tug boats and go down to Henderson in wagons to reach this city on time.

Messrs. C. W. Ren and Geo. H. Johnson have formed a partnership and will engage in the hardware business at the late stand of Taylor & Bea, on Nashville St. Mr. Ren has had much practical experience in retailing and gutting, which is a leading feature of their business. Both gentlemen are young men of enterprise and industry, and will command a good share of the public patronage.

Polkman G. L. Jones shot at a coal thief Wednesday night on the railroad, and accidentally shot Jim Jackson, colored, who was passing in the arm. Jones is in the employ of the railroad company and has made several arrests lately of persons whom he caught stealing coal. He was tried yesterday in the police court and fined $25 for shooting Jackson. The latter's wound is not serious.

Mr. John Morrison, one of the oldest citizens of the county, died at his residence near Pembroke on the 21st inst., in his 85th year. He was the father of Mr. Eugene Morrison, of Pembroke, and was an old gentleman universally esteemed by all. He was not sick, but the spark of life which had been burning in him for nearly four-score years and ten "went out like a candle."

Mr. Jno. B. Bell's sale last Tuesday was largely attended and the sale occupied the whole day. The weather was good for the season and people were present for many miles around and some from adjoining counties. It was only a mile or two from town and a great many walked out from the city. The bidding was lively at times and prices were in most cases satisfactory. Mr. Bell and his family will start for Texas in a few days. He has sold his farm to Messrs. F. R. Dryer, T. J. Morrow and B. W. Harned, of this city, the two last named buying the homestead portion in partnership.

Mr. M. W. Grissam, about two years ago, bought the lot upon which the old Episcopal church was situated. After the fire in Oct. 1882, Mr. Grissam converted the church into a grocery which he occupied until last fall, when he moved to a store on Main street. The old church has undergone another transmutation and appears this time as an ice-house. The floor has been taken out and the large cellar filled with ice which has been piled up ten feet above and the whole building will be filled, and straw packed around and above it, the windows and doors being fastened up. If the ice keeps Mr. Grissam will probably break the ice factory company, as the supply he is putting up would furnish the whole city till the middle of October. As the house is a frame one it is believed that the effort to make it keep ice will prove futile.

The Turnpike Bill.

The Breathitt Turnpike Bill, establishing a road district in Christian county, which was passed by the last Legislature has been repealed. There was no opposition raised by its advocates, the election of Mr. Brasher, the anti-turnpike candidate, being taken as settling the fate of the Bill itself. These citizens who have been losing sleep, on account of the additional taxation which the Bill proposed, can now sink sweetly into the arms of Morpheus. The Bill aroused feelings of bitterness between many of our best citizens and caused animosities that years will not allay. Section was arrayed against section and neighbor against neighbor. The Bill was never submitted to a vote.

TRIGG COUNTY LETTER.

Jno. Malone Killed—Trigg Opposed to Senator Williams—Judge Grace for Congress—Death of Gen. Gaines.

Cadiz, Ky. Jan. 21st 1884.

On last Friday afternoon Mr. John Malone and two other young men were out hunting near Cadiz. Mr. Malone fired at a squirrel. The gun burst sending the breech pin into his brain. He lingered till Sunday afternoon and died. Mr. Malone was 19 years old, an excellent young man, moral and industrious, and a general favorite with the young people.

He was a son of Mr. J. S. Malone, one of the most respected citizens of Cadiz.

I notice that your state Senator and ours voted for Williams. The vote of yours may suit his people, I don't think ours does. If old "Fuss and Feathers," was all the chance for a United States Senator, I would have none. The fact is I am about tired of voting for military chieftains. They have their share now of office and more too. I generally take pleasure in voting against them. If no better man can be found for Senator than John S. Williams I would say in the language of the constable who calls the squire's court to order "God save the commonwealth." I believe since Williams was defeated for Commonwealth's attorney in his district they call him a farmer, a farmer without a farm, a lawyer without a client. I have heard that Gen. Williams' wife has a fine farm, run by an agent and overseer. They say he is the only farmer in the United States Senate, and he knows about as much about farming as a pig does about grammar. You may as well make arrangements for another Circuit Court Judge for we are going to send Judge Grace to Congress; we mean no foolishness this time. It was not Judge Grace, that was beaten the other race. It was his party, the convention Democrats. The old out-law of Jefferson, Co. Ky. demagogued and demoralized the party, arraying county against town till numbers of democrats seemed as senseless as an oyster.

The death of Gen. John W. Gaines at Montgomery, on the 13th inst. was a great loss to his family and to that section of the country. Gen. Gaines was a large and successful farmer. Before the war he made larger crops to the hand than any farmer I ever knew. Besides being a farmer, Gen. Gaines handled a large stock of dry goods and no poor man was ever turned away from him who applied for necessities for his family. He would let those have who already owed him and that he knew never would pay him. His popularity and influence with the poor, white or black, was unbounded. He was more lamented and more missed than any other man who ever died in the neighborhood.

Gen. Gaines came from Va. to this Co. about 35 years ago; all these years I have known him well, and I bear testimony that he was a noble hearted, good man and I believe will reach an eternity of joy.

Stanley, of the Christian church officiated. Mr. Scales is an attorney at law. He and his bride will remain here several weeks before leaving for their western home.

Charles Edmundson.

Our young friend Charles appears to be enjoying the greatest prosperity at his cozy little store on Nashville street, and well does he deserve it. A lot of choice cigars, tobacco and sweetmeats can not be found in Hopkinsville, and his popularity is due in part to this fact and to the further fact that his manners are engaging and that he is courteous to all who pay his store a visit. When in search of a choice cigar or anything in his line drop into Charles's neat little establishment and you are certain to secure it.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY.

In the manufacture of heminy about one-half of the corn is lost, the dirty part alone being saved for huminy, while the germ, sweet or soft part of the berry and smaller particles of hominy are worked off. This makes a most excellent food for stock of any kind as it contains the nutritious part of the berry. To farmers or any one else wanting to try this food I will make an equal exchange pound for pound or can supply them at 80 cents per one hundred pounds. It is a well known fact that ground feed will grow much faster and stock will thrive and mature faster from it. It makes a most excellent cow food, especially when mixed with bran.
